July 11–16, 2010 Sunday–Friday

July 16 –18, 2010 Friday–Sunday

For children ages 5-11.

Storytime Yoga is a way for children of all ages to enjoy storytelling, music, yoga, meditation, relaxation, story making, art, and nature in an interactive camp setting. Kids will learn to connect their minds with their bodies through imagination, play, and the arts, beginning with breath, body awareness, and yoga postures.

Acclaimed storyteller and yoga teacher Sydney Solis will use her dynamic style to integrate playfulness that wakes kids up on the inside so they can experience life's amazing gifts on the outside. The author of numerous books, audios, and a DVD on storytelling and yoga, Sydney enchants her young audience while teaching through play the value of ritual and ways to access the intuitive and sensing parts of the psyche.

Children will simultaneously learn peace and character education while experiencing the beauty of Kripalu's campus. Art, drama, storytelling, and yoga projects will round out the experience as kids discover the hero within and find out how to put that experience into action and to be of service in the world.

Note Children in this program must be accompanied at Kripalu Center by a parent/adult who is registered for a program or R&R.
